Community Enrichment Through Storytelling: How your Stories Build Connection and Provide Direction

More about topic:

Interactive Storytelling Training: BUILD SKILLS AND LEARN FROM EACH OTHER

This is an interactive workshop that is focused on transforming communications and enriching communities. Jay Golden will combine curated local stories with techniques and practices in a co-learning environment. The day will focus on building skills and providing applications that will change your understanding of storytelling – and how you talk about your work. At the end of the workshop, each participant will walk away with a new understanding of how to find and shape key insights that will create a deeper connection and inspire action for enhancing communities.

Register now at: <http://training30Oct2014.eventbrite.com>

Learning Objectives:

- Applying this ancient practice of sharing critical knowledge
- Learn together from each other's stories and lessons
- Draw on what we know about storytelling and build our skills from techniques provided
- Begin to build a repertoire of stories for use in a variety of different ways for different audiences

Guest Speaker: Jay Golden

A veteran of 15 years of innovative storytelling - from improvisational theater to online music videos to eBooks for the iPad - Jay Golden focuses on the powerful stories that we tell every day, and how they can change the world. Today, Jay is Founder and CEO of Wakingstar Storyworks, a boutique story consulting and training group that serves clients such as the Centers for Disease Control, Facebook and YouTube. Jay's speaking, training, and events are designed to help leaders find, shape and tell their own stories, so they can shape the world.
